

PROJECT359

I See Through You

I'm waiting for the storm to come
The silence a sign (that we have come undone)
My patience is fading
I bite my tongue (this life is just frustrating)

I've never felt this much alone
Weakened by your heart of stone
You've played me once just like a fool
But now I see right through you
You won't admit what you have done
So now its time for you to run
Don't you dare try something new
I can see right through you

I watch you turn the tables my way
Lay the blame (that's all you have to say)
If you don't love me no more
Then please (just walk out the door)

© Copyright 2006 PROJECT359

All lyrics written and owned by David Saul
CD artwork designed and created by David Saul