

PROJECT359

My Dark Shadow

Hello from the outside, can you hear me clearly?
It's good to finally meet you and I mean that most sincerely
I saw you for the first time, though you've seen me every day
You've watched my own reflection, silent with nothing to say

Some choices have to be made, we can't co-exist this way
I'll fight for my survival, I'll live another day
It's time for one of us to die, but if I go I take you with me
Did you really expect me to allow things to stay this way?

My shadow lives in me
Taking all I used to be
I've kept it alive, now I must survive
Before insanity

So how long have you been here? Who first opened up the door?
Did you think you'd stay forever? Be something I'd ignore?
You gave yourself away, when you took too much of me
That's when I first saw you, betrayed by your own greed

Do you fear the end my friend? Do you sense the time has come?
I feel you pulse in anger, you're about come undone
The time has come to part as I feel the wave of dreams
When I wake I'll be free from you, no more silent screams

My shadow lives in me
Taking all I used to be
I've kept it alive, now I must survive
Before insanity

Hello from the outside, can you hear me clearly?
It's good to finally beat you, and I mean that most sincerely